As a combat helicopter pilot, Casey's military training and experience gives him a unique approach when he advocates for his clients in complex civil litigation matters. His background has afforded him skills key to successful litigation, such as a well-developed capacity to calculate and weigh risk and a systematic approach to support his clients' best interests. Casey has played an active role in all aspects of litigation across a wide range of business disputes, including:

- Breach of contract
- Mineral royalties
- Rights of first refusal
- Real property rights
- Unfair competition
- Non-competition
- Non-solicitation
- Trademark infringement
- Patent infringement

Prior to law school and following his graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point, Casey served more than seven years as a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army's Aviation branch. While on active duty, he was a UH-60 Blackhawk pilot-in-command and completed two combat deployments in Operation Iraqi Freedom, receiving numerous awards and accolades for his military and combat service, including the U.S. Army Aviator Badge, Parachutist Badge, Air Medal, and Joint Service Commendation Medal. As a means of continuing his commitment to military service, Casey maintains a security level of Secret Clearance by the US Department of Defense.
