Ryan Heath is an Associate in Wick Phillips' Estate Planning section. His practice focuses primarily on complex estate planning, probate and trust administration, and associated wealth planning matters.

Ryan represents business owners, families, and financial institutions with a primary focus on shouldering his clients' problems and helping them achieve their goals. Ryan believes in a custom approach to tackling his clients' needs. Through quick response times, open lines of communication, and sound counsel, Ryan believes that he can effectively attend to the needs and requested outcomes of his clients.

Outside of the legal industry, Ryan is an active Board Member on the Board of Directors of Community Storehouse, a non-profit that focuses on identifying under-privileged youth that are behind in reading and getting them caught up-to-speed through after school programs and other family support services. Ryan is originally from the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and enjoys traveling, golf, and reading. He and wife, Lorna, currently live in Fort Worth, Texas, where their boxer, Woodford, runs the house.
