Eric Shalolashvili joined Wick Phillips after completing a rigorous clerkship at one of the largest international law firms in the world. During his clerkship, Eric gained an understanding of various legal issues connected with commercial litigation matters in both state and federal courts. Eric was a part of a team of attorneys that prevailed on a motion for reconsideration involving a $90 million dispute in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida. He was also fortunate to intern for and be mentored by the Honorable John O'Sullivan at the Southern District of Florida and the Honorable Robin Rosenbaum at the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.

Eric earned a bachelor's and master's degree in Talmudic Law, which gives him a unique perspective into the origin of today's judicial systems.
