Matthew Zucker is a partner in the mergers and acquisition section of Wick Phillips. He regularly represents a wide variety of public and private companies in mergers and acquisitions, divestitures, joint ventures, equity and debt offerings and commercial lending. He also counsels companies on corporate governance, securities law disclosure and compliance, and general corporate matters. Matthew's practice also includes representing banks and other institutions acting as trustees and agents in connection with domestic and international transactions and projects.

Matthew has represented companies both domestically and internationally in a broad range of industries, including manufacturing, telecommunications, financial services, technology, real estate, retail, healthcare and media.

Prior to joining Wick Phillips, Matthew practiced in the Dallas office of Baker Botts L.L.P. and the New York office of Kelley Drye & Warren LLP.
